Dear Jason,

On behalf of the ASA Colorado Board of Directors, staff and the members of the Awards Program Committee, I wanted to communicate a note of congratulations to you as an award recipient.

Each year as ASA Colorado plans the awards program, we contemplate the process of nomination to award winner. In consideration of the process we are reminded that the winners of the ASA Colorado Awards Program are the 'Emmy' awards of the construction industry. You have been voted by the people of the Colorado Construction Industry an Award Winner.

Award winners are not nominated and elected on a single project or by a single experience. But rather, award winners are viewed by their peers as mentors and examples of how the process of building is impacted by the individuals and companies that rise to the top of our industry by their ongoing and continual contribution to the building process.

Nominations are made by ASA Colorado members and partners. Nominees are compiled and the ASA Colorado Award Ballot is created. Ballots are mailed, emailed and faxed to the members and partners of ASA Colorado. Votes are tallied and those receiving the most votes determine the winners in each category. You were elected as the winner in your category!

Once again, congratulations and thank you for serving Colorado construction by your example and leadership.

Sincerely,
